

Sandra Reddish

HCD Ph.D. Current Student

Sandra is passionate about helping those in need. She has collaborated on numerous projects to help the unemployed, underemployed, homeless, and the underserved. Sandra teamed up with South Carolina Works to provide job fairs, apprenticeship programs, and training programs for a local community in South Carolina.

- Sandra became a published author with her paper titled, "Training Transfer: Factors that Increase Direct-Care Worker Outcomes."
- The paper was also presented at the 2016 Academy for Human Resource Development International Research Conference.
- In 2015, Sandra completed an internship at Georgia Tech's Global Learning Center.